Jaime Clark-Soles

Associate Professor of New Testament, Perkins School of Theology,
Southern Methodist University

In John 10:10, Jesus declares: "I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly." What could he mean? What does an abundant life look like? How might one find it or be found by it? The Gospel of John provides ample clues. It beckons us to "come and see" and invites us to experience the poetry of the created order around us and within us. So come (re)discover the richness of this Gospel whose uniqueness and layers of mystery continue to grip its readers and whose unanticipated surprises delight at every turn!

Jaime Clark-Soles has taught New Testament at Perkins School of Theology since 2001. Dr. Clark-Soles enjoys speaking and writing in both academic and popular venues. Presently, she is writing two books which allow her to combine her scholarly and pastoral interests: Dying to Live: Questions and Answers about Death and Afterlife and The Active Word: New Testament Studies and the Christian Believer. Dr. Clark-Soles appears in the Johannine portions of Disciple Bible Study videos. As an ordained American Baptist minister, Rev. Clark-Soles has served in both parish and hospice settings. She is a member at Church in the Cliff in Dallas.
